EURIBOR-EBF BECOMES EMMI

We are pleased to announce the launch of our new company name. Since 20 June 2014, Euribor-EBF has officially become EMMI, the European Money Markets Institute.

This change accompanies a period of in-depth reform of the Institute with a view to reinforce transparency and reliability of benchmarks' administration while restoring confidence in key indices such as Euribor.

We will continue our activities of benchmarks' administration but also our key role as managers of the STEP label, an initiative aimed to foster the integration of the European markets for short-term paper through the convergence of market standards and practices.
